V. 2021.06.17

Welcome to Entelechy

General Summary for Entelechy Investors

Introduction

The word 'Entelechy' means "the realization of innate potential". The term, therefore, also recognizes that there is a unique potential inherent within each living being.

As the Oak Tree is the Entelechy of the Aecorn, or the Butterfly is the Entelechy of a Caterpillar, this community exists due to the belief that human society is also capable of realizing its Entelechy. This looks like humanity reaching a stage of maturity, and living in a state of balance and symbiosis with all other forms of life while being conscientious and loving stewards of this planet Earth.

This community was named as such to help us all ask the question: How do we realize our individual, and collective Entelechy?

The Land

Entelechy is situated on 13.5 acres of land, with a mixture of second growth forest and some open area's. Gardens are in the works, and additional development is an ongoing effort.

Infrastructure

- A main house with 4 bedrooms, 3 bathrooms and 2 laundry areas is usually reserved for the residents living in this domain, but common areas are shared for events, potlucks and movie nights. Common areas are also available if others on the land need a warm and dry place to rest, and the bathroom facilities on the main floor are accessible by individuals living outside of this residence.

- 5 trailer sites that are all serviced with electricity and water, and of which are occupied by longer term residents of Entelechy.

- An outdoor kitchen, outdoor bath/shower, and outdoor toilet that services the two wall tents, any campers, and any work-away guests. These facilities are usually just active from May to the end of October.

Respect for the land is essential. This means being responsible with waste, putting away tools and items after use each day, being mindful of the other residents, and remaining respectful for the natural ecology in the way we live and interact with the land.

Vision

To achieve a living balance between human settlement and the natural world - including a synergy between all human and non-human beings that inhabit it.

Values

Three fundamentals that represent the values of Entelechy, without going into too much detail, can be summarized as Earth Care, People Care, and Fair Share.

 Earth Care ***
Ecological Sustainability

Acting with respect, love and reverence for the Earth, and its many Earth related systems, such as; clean air, clean water, healthy soil, ecology and biodiversity.

 People Care ***
Village Sanctuary

Fostering safety, compassion and respect for one another by remaining considerate to their needs, and to uplift others so everyone is empowered to be their best.

 Fair Share ***
Social Reciprocity

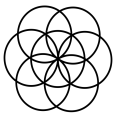
Balancing the individual's needs with the needs of the community. Providing equal opportunity. Honoring the time, energy and love contributed by everyone.

Principals

Principals are values-in-action, and below are some of the most important. More examples of both Values and Principals are described within the long-term resident documentation package.

Resourcefulness

Caring for the Earth by caring for Earth resources. Minimal waste lifestyle, upcycling, proper recycling. Being resourceful with energy consumption, water and materials.



Accountability & Integrity

Building and maintaining trust with others by being considerate of their needs, honest with our self and own motivations, and accountable for the effects of our words and behaviors.

Kindness, Fun & Safety

Gatherings, pot lucks, safe spaces, authentic relating, non-violent communication and fostering healthy relating through clear & respectful communication.

Practical Description of the Community

Entelechy is a collaborative joint venture premised upon a set of egalitarian, ecological, and humanistic values and principles.

- Similar to an intentional community; whereby a group of people choose to live in alignment with a set of shared values and ideals, Entelechy offers a variety of temporary and long term accommodation to individuals interested in community development, sustainable design, and a dynamic social landscape.

- Similar to a cooperative; whereby a central ownership structure is divided among its members, Entelechy is not governed nor possessed by a single individual. Rather it is shared between everyone who has contributed to the communities ongoing development in a meaningful way.

In these ways and others, Entelechy is designed to invite a rich cultural and experiential diversity, supported by practicality. It is an experiment to examine how, and if, a mindful application of cooperative principles can result in a greater sociological and ecological balance.

Further, Entelechy is a place of sanctuary, where individuals can rest in the silence and stillness of nature to more deeply reflect upon the nature within. The community also offers an opportunity to work alongside friends and other people holding a similar vision of sustainable living, and to assist one another while working towards a harmonious interdependent lifestyle.

A main intention is to nourish the human soul through fun, celebration and sharing, while equally prioritizing the learning and growth necessary to embrace a higher standard of responsibility over what we, as individuals and as a collective, manifest through our thoughts, words and deeds.

Understanding Intentional Community

In general, an intentional community is a way to share the responsibilities of land stewardship, while surrounding oneself with friends and family in a manner not too unlike what has been practiced in pre-civil history. In modern times, an intentional community is like a value-based NGO. In order for it to survive, there are several ingredients that are necessary.

1. Core Values
   The core values underpin all logic, and act as both the compass and cohesive force binding the people, and the vision together. Other words to convey a similar understanding may include: Ideology, philosophy, intentions, principals, etc. The values and principles for Entelechy are referenced earlier in this document.

2. Logistics
   An old proverb says that battles are won with tactics, but wars are won with logistics. We are not fighting against anything here at Entelechy, perhaps other than challenging a status quo that doesn't fully take care of the peoples, plants or planet as well as it could.

   Logistical elements include: Finances, ownership structures, governance and decision making models, legalities, administration and accounting, proper logistical preparation, planning frameworks, and the general organization of day-to-day processes.

   A mindful approach to logistics also enlists communication standards and aims to be people-centric. This approach informs common understanding and leverages consensus whenever possible.

   L*ogistics*, therefore, acts to support the core values and in service of the social organization.

3. Culture
   The culture, or "interpersonal field" includes the fabric of human relationships. Celebrations, shared meals, communication exercises, work parties, mediations, and means for deepening self knowledge are all a part of the cultural domain.

   Interpersonal relationships and emotional bonds are at the heart of our mamaliam nature, and one of the primary reasons for living in community. The mindful application of tools and practices that support healthy relationships, and the development of self-awareness, is the cultural bedrock and a necessary core objective of a sustainable intentional community.

Shared Stewardship

Whereby it is commonplace for a smaller and select group of individuals to hold the majority of assets and real estate within our modern society, Entelechy endeavors to engineer a model of stewardship that places the rights of land ownership back in the hands of the community, and those who help to develop and maintain it.

Further, the intent is to do so in a way that also works in favor of all plant and animal life within and without the immediate microcosm. This is achieved by inviting individuals to invest in the Vision and Values, as much as in the physical asset.

Rather than reaching for idealistic standards alone, the methods employed by the Entelechy Architecture aims to realize an equitable and measurable way of relating with rights-of-ownership in the land through a system of Shares as illustrated later in this Shareholder Package - and that of which you are now a part!

An important understanding for everyone collaborating in Entelechy is to also recognize the Community as greater than any individual personality, and thus claim shared responsibility in supporting other residents, as well as when supporting the best interests for the collective whole.

Involvement and Reflective Analyses

Entelechy strives towards inclusivity, provided that individual participants are willing to take responsibility for their words and behaviors, and accountability over their own inner experience.

Perhaps the foremost quality encouraged for those seeking involvement in Entelechy invites a wholesome volition, and a desire to contribute to a collective vessel in collaboration with others.

This attitude is demonstrated best when mindfully weighing the needs of an individual in respect to the needs of the larger community, and to realize ways of aligning these two sets of needs so that they are each met in a reciprocal fashion, rather than investing in situations whereby they may become at odds.

This attitude is also demonstrated when contributing one’s energy in a constructive, respectful and genuinely loving way. To be nourished and receive the gratitude of others in the acts of giving, as well as being nourished and appreciative in the ways that we may allow ourselves to receive.

Community Shareholders

1. Brandon Strickland - Director, Treasurer, Accountant, Land Admin
2. Ross Leech - Council Member, Work-Away Lead
3. Deiter (Deetz) - Council Member, Maintenance Lead
4. Isun Skelhorn - Recycling and Waste Management Lead
5. Ahnwyn Skelhorn - Resident Shareholder

Passive Shareholders

6. Ron Scherloski, 7. Keith Lui, 8. Eve Renia, 9. Diogo Santas

Internal Communications

To help coordinate communications on the land, several telegram threads are active. You are welcome to be included in those that apply to your level of involvement!

1. ENTEL 1 – Community; is the general land thread for reminders, requests, announcements, events, etc.
2. ENTEL 2 – Household; is for the house residents exclusively.
3. ENTEL 3 – Entelekitchen; is for work-stay guests and residents who use the outdoor kitchen by the Junction.
4. ENTEL 4 – Workflow; is to coordinate work related tasks by residents and work-stay guests who are actively contributing towards improvements on the land.
5. ENTEL 5 – Rideshare; is for everyone on the land who may have a ride, or need a ride, and wishes to coordinate rides.
6. ENTEL 6 – Cat Power; is a conversation for people needing the plan and coordinate with the cats.
7. ENTEL 7 – Garden Guild; is a conversation among individuals committed to the community gardens.
8. ENTEL 8 – Council; includes all individuals living on the land who are active and committed to improvements and contributing towards the community.
9. ENTEL 9 – Shareholders; include the various individuals who are a bonafide shareholder of Entelechy.

Thank you for reading!

We are grateful to have you join us on this journey!